Did you know that snap on aluminium cover plates are provided on several products within the range, enabling powder-coated finishes to be supplied to match door handles or closers?

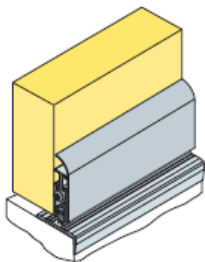

PVC snap-on cover seals are also available to provide a range of colours to match our standard acoustic, smoke and fire seals. Woodgrain and foil finishes are being developed too for the more prestigious projects.

Products with the alternative snap-on plate are: IS3081 si threshold seal, IS7026 si, IS7111 si, IS7101 si and IS7121 si perimeter seals, IS9051 and IS9071 finger guard seals.

Introduced into the manual this year is the new IS8035 si face-fixed automatic threshold seal. This is a popular choice for upgrading existing doors in line with the RRO requirements. Covered by Certifire for fire and smoke performance, it has also been tested for acoustics, achieving 33dB on a standard door construction. Tested for durability, the seal completed over 1 million open and close cycles. The high performance mechanism results in lower door operating forces to help meet the accessibility requirements.

To be launched shortly is the IS8036 si version which has an aluminium snap-on cover plate to improve aesthetics and offer the option of colour finishes.
